BAND STORY

Hi! I'm Kristen Bruno and my occasional bands are "Blues Matters" and "A Name You Can Trust". It just depends on the music I write.

Lately I mainly write songs and perform locally without the group.

I am singer/songwriter/guitarist. I play acoustic, electric, slide and Dobro and a little pedal steel. A few years back

My Most Played Song:

I wrote both Razzle Dazzle Man and "Seven" at my kitchen table simultaneously on two separate sheets of paper one in a few hours. "Razzle Dazzle Man" was voted the best blues song of the year by Songwriters Showcases of America in 2006. When I originally wrote and performed "Razzle Dazzle Man", some people gave me dirty looks. Little did they realize that this totally unfounded war would cause needless death to many. I just write what I see. I feel that my song, along with many others, have helped to heighten the population's consciousness. I think as the death toll rises it's starting to hit "closer to home" for many people. Each new song I hear from the many talented songwriters across the nation show a different aspect of this insanity. I hope the world wakes up soon.

I would like to thank my son Nick for his help on drums on a few of the more recent songs. Also, I'd like to express my thanks to Nancy DuMond (harmonica) and Stephen Grayce (bass) for their help on some of the my earlier Blues Matters tunes.

This Ones For You Sue - a song for Sue Hannah

I wrote this song for Sue Hannah, who passed away last year. She was the owner of Faces, the longest standing womyn's bars in Orlando, Florida, USA. Many bars came and went but her bar, Faces, ...stayed. Many women "came out" here. My band Blues Matters had the pleasure of playing at Faces several times. We played this song at her memorial at Faces one week after she passed away.

I'd like to thank my son Nick Bruno for playing drums, and Daryl Morrow for the piano.
