BAND STORY

"Morgueazm do not stay within just one genre, they do not get trapped within just one style. Morgueazm are diverse. The only things you can be assured of are that Morgueazm will terrify you with their visions of horror, they will entrap you with their addictive sound, they will leave you smiling at their macabre humour, they will seduce you in to wanting more. Morgueazm was formed mid 2001 by ex-Blood Money members Gramie Dee and Brett Avok. Blood Money was a fairly successful UK underground thrash metal band between 1985 and 1987 releasing two albums on the Ebony Records label, 'Red Raw and Bleeding' (1986) and 'Battlescarred' (1987). The band gained a respectable fan base by touring and gigging, and Blood Money is still remembered today as a part of the NWoBHM. When Gramie created an official web site for Blood Money in early 2001 he and Brett were amazed at the response from old fans everywhere, receiving e-mails from as far as Spain enquiring if another album would be released. Because it was not possible to reform Blood Money with the original line-up, it was decided to form a new band and Morgueazm was born. A band that draws upon it's influences of thrash metal, but also injects elements of death and techno to give a fresh and different sound. Dark Mark completes the line up on bass and keyboards."
